£14m budget pledge for new M11 junction

County approval for vital route but residents fear noise and further congestion

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE Government has pledged £14million to deliver M11 junction 7a in Harlow in the Spring Budget.

Country road Gilden Way will be transformed into a three lane carriageway to cope with an expected 71 per cent increase in traffic passing along the section.

Despite complaints from Old Harlow residents the new layout will be noisy and cause congestion, politicians agreed the town needs a second motorway entrance to relieve pressure.

Junction 7a was passed last year. After the £14m was announced on Friday (March 10) Tory Essex County Council (ECC) member Kevin Bentley expressed his approval.

Councillor Bentley, deputy leader of ECC, said: "I am delighted as this junction will really improve the lives of those living, working and travelling through west Essex."

"The M11 is a key route for residents, businesses and freight. That is why we have fought hard to seek infrastructure funding for this vital new junction."

Widening

In addition to the junction and road widening, a new roundabout will be built at Sheering Road. After a long planning process, works are expected to be completed in 2021.

The creation of Harlow

Enterprise Zone, located towards the town's east was a key motivator behind the decision to pass junction 7a.

Cllr Bentley said: "Junction 7a will offer a link onto the M11 for the Harlow Enterprise Zone while supporting housing and business growth in the local area."

"Keeping Essex moving is a priority and we cannot allow our key routes to grind to a halt due to a lack of action.

"It may only be March but 2017 is already shaping up to be a milestone year to transform the county's road infrastructure."

Robert Halfon, MP for Harlow, said: "We need a new road and junction for Harlow. We need to make sure that the road is sustainable. It has got to happen."

Cash kindly given to assault and robbery victim to help rebuild life

Readers thanked for £2k of kind donations

By Conor Gogarty
star@hertsexnews.co.uk

AN ASSAULT and robbery victim from Harlow has been "touched" by the generosity of the Harlow Star's readers after they donated more than £2,000 to help him rebuild his life.

Richard Kennedy, 26, still suffers from brain damage and seizures after being punched outside Dukes nightclub, in Chelmsford, in October 2010, which caused him to stay in a coma for two years and at Broomfield Hospital for more than four.

Threatened

Last month, both his parents died and he was viciously mugged by a gang in Central Park, Chelmsford, who threatened to kill him.

After we broke news of the attack and several readers suggested launching a fundraiser to support Richard, of Hart Road in Harlow, an initial £500 target was set.

That figure was far exceeded by the 113 donors, however, who amassed a total of £2,267, leaving Richard, a food bank volunteer, "speechless".

He said: "I am blown away, I wasn't expecting that. The generosity of some people — I can't believe it."

"I am stunned. That is how people should be, not going round attacking people, thinking they are Jackie Chan."

"It is amazing. People were messaging me after the attack, people I don't know, saying that I have a big heart. I am back to where I was before it happened, back to where I should be."

Richard now plans to book a holiday with the proceeds.

"I am overdue one," he said. "It will either be Ibiza or Great Yarmouth, it's a toss-up between the two."

The robbery on February 13 saw him targeted by a gang of four or five young men while walking from Central Park through the underpass to Parkway at around 11.45am.

They punched and kicked him and stole £85.

Richard said: "I was in Chelmsford to meet a friend, and I heard quick footsteps like a couple of people were jogging."

"I was on my way to turn round to move out of their way, but before I knew it I was jumped by men, all wearing dark clothes, and I ended up on the floor."

"They were swearing at me, I was face down and I had a really bad seizure. I freaked out and didn't have a clue what was going on."

Essex Police said Mr Kennedy's attackers were then seen to run back into the park.

GRATEFUL: Richard Kennedy is hoping to go on a revitalising break with the donations from kind readers

POLICIES: Philip Hammond

Cautious welcome for budget

The Government's spring budget has been greeted by a mixed response by Harlow politicians.

Philip Hammond's speech on Wednesday (March 8) was hailed as 'supportive' by town MP Robert Halfon and 'a betrayal' by Harlow Council leader Jon Clempner.

The Chancellor put forward a tax rise for the self-employed and hit director shareholders by reducing a tax break, but also offered a reformed savings bond.

Tory MP Mr Halfon said: "This is a budget that will help build an even better Harlow, boost skills and apprenticeships in our town, protect our NHS and social care and cut the cost of living. It is a worker's budget for hardworking families."

Supporting his party the MP pointed towards a freeze in fuel duty, an increase in costs towards childcare and a rise in the national living wage.

Policy

But a policy that saw the self-employed pay a greater national insurance contribution has angered Harlow Labour members.

Labour councillor Mr Clempner said: "This represents a wholesale betrayal of the small businessmen and women who placed their trust in the Tories to create the conditions in which their businesses would flourish."

"It's ironic that during the last election campaign, the Tories accused Labour of plotting to raise national insurance contributions, hitting hard-working taxpayers and costing jobs and here they are doing just that. But when the Tories are boasting about the positive state of the treasury's finances in the future, the small businessmen and women of Britain will not have forgotten this broken promise."

SAFE PLACE Jon Clempner

Hate crime in county has doubled since Brexit

RACIALLY and religiously motivated hate crime has doubled in Essex since Brexit, according to latest Home Office figures.

Harlow saw 32 incidents from July to September 2016, a steep rise from 13 the year before, while for Essex figures rose from 187 to 376.

Countywide, the hate crimes included 26 cases of assault with injury, 58 of assault without injury, 29 cases of criminal damage, 20 of harassment and 243 cases of public fear, alarm or distress.

Councillor Jon Clempner, leader of Harlow Council, said: "For most people Harlow remains a safe place to live, work and visit and a place where people get along."

"We continue to work with Essex Police and our partners to ensure that remains the case."

Despite the rise in this type of hate crime, an Essex Police spokesman said the force remains committed to tackling hate crime of all kinds.

He said: "Essex Police does not tolerate hate crime in any form and take all reports seriously but there has been an increase in reports of alleged hate crime across Essex mirroring a national trend."

Awareness

"Hate crime is significantly under-reported. We believe greater awareness, hard work with local partners like Harlow Council and confidence in the police response has contributed to the increase."

"Whether it's an incident that takes place online or in the street, it's important to let us know about hate crime to give us a chance to investigate and prosecute offenders and to ensure that victims and the wider community are protected."

"There is no evidence to suggest that any increase has been specifically and directly caused by any one event or issue."

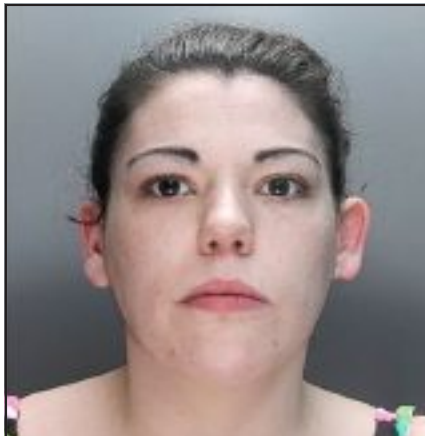

The increase in racially or religiously motivated crime in the months following the European Union Referendum was reflected across the country with a rise of one third.

An overwhelming majority of Harlow voters elected to leave the EU.

Mr Clempner added: "Working with Essex Police we have recently set up a hate crime reporting centre in the Civic Centre which is one of nine facilities in Harlow."

"A number of our frontline staff have been trained as hate crime ambassadors."

"This is part of our work to reassure local people that they can report hate crime and that help is available."

Nearly £5k of drugs gang's assets are seized by court

But the amount was just 1% of what they earned from their crimes

By Huw Wales

huw.wales@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ASSETS seized from six members of a drug gang that operated across Hertfordshire and Essex equal just more than one per cent of what they earned through their criminal activity.

Jonathan Chilcott, of Harlow, Scott Webb, of Harlow, Matthew Hunt, of Stansted Mountfitchet, Louis Croke, of Broxbourne, Joanne O'Brien, of Saffron Walden and Natalie Pierce, of Harlow had £4,827 worth of assets seized during a hearing at Chelmsford Crown Court on Friday, March 10.

Activities

However the court was told that the six had benefited by £408,969 from their activities as part of the gang operated by drug baron Bradley Stantiford.

Judge Patricia Lynch approved seizure orders under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 ranging from £1,779 to £1 for six members of the 11 who were prosecuted for being part of Stantiford's gang.

Prosecutor, David Matthews, told the court that Jonathan Chilcott, 26, who managed a safe house in Stansted Mountfitchet and pleaded guilty to supplying cocaine, would have all £1,779 worth of his assets seized.

The court heard that the proceeds from his drug activities equalled £228,959.

Benefited

Scott Webb, 29, Matthew Hunt, 31, Louis Croke, 22, and Joanne O'Brien, 28, were all found to have benefited by £45,000 each, but only had assets worth £1,440 to £425 seized from them.

Natalie Pierce, 32, was found to have benefited by £10,000, but only had £1 seized from her during the hearing.

The three final members of the gang, Stantiford, of Hoddesdon, Stephen Till, of Broxbourne, and Andrew Seaforth, of Ware, are due to appear at Chelmsford Crown Court on March 30 to have their assets seized.

The entire group were sentenced to a total of nearly half a century in prison in August last year.

Residents are told 'chaotic roadworks' will be finished soon

ESSEX Highways has promised "chaotic" roadworks in First Avenue, Harlow, will soon be completed.

Harlow councillor Mike Danvers said many residents have raised concerns about building work blocking the emergency exit to Mark Hall School.

He said: "The road has been lacking any supervision for months and just seems in a permanent state of chaos. The emergency entrance to the school on one side of the road is in the process of being blocked off."

"Disabled residents find it impossible to get from one side of the road to the other."

"The open space policy in force since the 1950s has been torn up and a fence has been erected around the East Park estate."

"Residents are now complain-

CALLING FOR ACTION: Councillor Mike Danvers surveys the roadworks in First Avenue, Harlow

ing of continual work well into the night."

Mr Danvers, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for resources and Essex County Council (ECC) member for Harlow North, said he has approached County Hall to hurry up the improvements.

He added: "This chaotic situation bodes badly for the future with the changes proposed to Gilden Way. It looks like misery for residents for years to come. The administration at Chelmsford must take a grip of the situation, get the work back in order and resurface the road at the roundabout which has been in a disgraceful state for more than a year."

Essex Highways, a division of ECC, has pledged to finish the works within a few weeks.

A spokesman for Essex Highways said: "These works are scheduled for completion around the end of March or early April, and we thank residents for their continued patience. We have had a positive response from several local people, but we understand that temporary inconvenience has been caused for some residents."

"There are crossings at the junction of London Road and First Avenue and the subways south of the A414/First Avenue roundabout and joining Park Hill and Broomfield. The improvements being made here were agreed with the school."

Nearly half of ambulance service suffer from stress

Trust disputes figures but says NHS financial remit is 'challenging'

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ESSEX and Hertfordshire's ambulance service has responded after a report found nearly one half of its staff reported feeling sick with stress last year.

With 49 per cent of staff reporting stress-related illnesses, East of England Ambulance Service Trust (Eeast) was found the joint-fifth most stressful of the 200 trusts in the NHS.

Data uncovered in the latest NHS staff survey also found six out of ten employees showed up to work feeling unwell because of pressure to be there.

But Eeast, which also covers Norfolk, Suffolk and Bedfordshire, said lower budgets and an increased number of 999 calls had added pressure to an already stretched service.

Challenging

A spokesman said: "By the very nature of what they do, our clinicians are frequently exposed to extremely challenging and stressful environments."

"All ambulance services worldwide recognise this and in this regard we have a number of support mechanisms in place to help our staff, including access to specially trained practitioners to provide support if they are suffering traumatic stress at work."

The figures, obtained via a freedom of information request, were disputed by Eeast which claimed the figure only represented 29 per cent of the work force.

The spokesman added: "We know there is still more to do, and this is one of the reasons we have developed a strategy, focused on physical, psychological and social wellbeing."

"Last year, we carried out a cultural health and wellbeing audit because the executive team wanted to understand how we can better support staff."

STRESS: With 49 per cent of staff reporting stress-related illnesses, East of England Ambulance Service Trust was found the joint-fifth most stressful of the 200 trusts in the NHS

From the staff completing the survey, 88 per cent said they were working extra hours.

The spokesman added: "Our results are broadly comparable with those of other ambulance trusts."

Average

"Our overall staff engagement score (3.41 out of five) actually places us mid-table when compared to other UK ambulance services and also matches the national average (also 3.41)."

"We continue to see a huge increase in demand with more people calling 999 than ever.

"Unfortunately, our capacity to respond has not kept pace due to the challenging financial remit the NHS is working in."

"In this context, it is not surprising that given managers and staff are doing more work without additional resources, we are reporting higher levels of stress."

"But despite these challenges all of our staff continue to work exceptionally hard to deliver a high level of care and we are exceptionally proud of everything they continue to do."

An exercise bike trip from Paris to London

TEACHERS at a Harlow school cycled the equivalent of London to Paris in a combined 24-hour ride on exercise bikes.

Several Burnt Mill Academy staff started at 9am last Friday and had clocked up 289 miles by 1.30am on Saturday in a fundraiser for homeless charity Streets2Homes.

But even after they reached their target, the group agreed to continue riding the full 24 hours.

Daniel Bolt, the PE teacher who organised the ride, said: "I'm really proud of the team, we completed the challenge a lot sooner than we thought we would."

"Next time we'll have to set a further distance. We have a few other challenges in the planning stages for later in the year as well."

"Thank you to all who have been supporting us on social media and through donations."

Shifts were split throughout the day and night with each rider cycling for an hour at a time.

As the end of the 24th hour approached staff and students had started to arrive for their Saturday school sessions and a school trip. They gathered to countdown to the end of the ride.

Streets2Homes is service based in Wych Elm, Harlow, which helps the homeless make a difficult first step into accommodation.

SENT TO PRISON

GRAHAM RAYMOND MCSHANE, 35, of Aylets Field, Harlow was committed to prison for 12 weeks and ordered to pay victim surcharge of £115 for driving along Kitson Way, Harlow while disqualified from holding or obtaining a driving licence. He was then committed to prison for 12 weeks concurrent and disqualified from holding or obtaining a driving licence for four years for driving along Kitson Way, Harlow after consuming so much alcohol that the proportion of it in his breath, namely 76 microgrammes of alcohol in 100 millilitres of breath, exceeded the prescribed limit, when there was no test certificate in force for the vehicle, and there was no insurance in force covering that use of the vehicle. He then had a suspended sentence of imprisonment of eight weeks suspended for 24 months imposed by North and East Hertfordshire Magistrates' Court in June 2015 implemented as a sentence of six weeks concurrent for an original offence in respect of which the suspended sentence order was made for stealing alcohol, to the value of £24, belonging to Asda in Stevenage. He then had a suspended sentence of imprisonment of 16 weeks suspended for 24 months imposed by North and East Hertfordshire Magistrates' Court in June 2015 implemented as a sentence of six weeks consecutive for an original offence in respect of which the suspended sentence order was made for failing to provide a specimen of breath for analysis in the course of an investigation into whether he had committed an offence. The overall length of this sentence is 18 weeks.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

KIERAN KEITH BOGGIS, 22, of Arkwrights, Harlow was committed to prison for 12 weeks suspended for 18 months during which time he was ordered to participate in an accredited programme for 29 days, to comply with any instructions of the responsible officer to attend rehabilitation activity appointments or participate in any activity as required by the responsible officer up to a maximum of 30 days, to carry out unpaid work for 79 hours within the next 12 months supervised by the responsible officer; and to pay £150 compensation for assaulting a man by beating him in Harlow and having a quantity of cannabis (a controlled drug of class B) in his possession in Harlow. He was also committed to prison for six weeks consecutive suspended for 18 months for an original offence in respect of which a community order was made in November 2016 for assaulting a woman by beating her. The overall length of this sentence on activation would be 18 weeks.

Husband put indecent images of children on his wife's laptop

63-year-old gets suspended prison sentence but may have to sit lie-detector tests

By Richard Duggan
star@hertssexnews.co.uk

A MAN who downloaded pornographic photos and videos of children onto his wife's laptop has been escaped jail but may be made to sit lie detector tests to prevent re-offending.

John Holman, of Harlow, was sentenced after pleading guilty to possession of indecent images of children involving penetrative sexual activity, non-penetrative sexual activity, and possession of extreme pornography, at Chelmsford Crown Court last Friday (March 10).

In April 2016, Essex Police conducted a search at 63-year-old Holman's home, after receiving information that indecent images had been downloaded or viewed at his address.

A purple laptop, belonging to the defendant's wife, was seized by officers and was found to contain seven movies from Category A, the highest level of child pornography, as well 15 extreme pornographic images and a still image from Category B.

Several graphic search terms relating to children were also found on the computer.

Outlining the case, prosecutor Allan Compton described how Holman made a full confession to downloading and storing the images when confronted with the evidence.

Mr Compton said: "He said he had been viewing images of children for about 10 years, but not very often."

"He said that he'd seen all categories of images but wasn't sexually attracted to children, or that he used the images to masturbate to."

"It would appear that the number of images recovered didn't represent the level of child pornography viewed by the defendant over the years."

Specialised

Holman revealed to officers during his interview that he had been using a specialised computer program to access the indecent images.

Speaking in mitigation, defence counsel Joseph Bird told the court that Holman described himself as "a bloody idiot" and "a silly fool".

Mr Bird said: "His being caught and having to deal with this publicly means this is not going to happen again."

"He wasn't doing this on a habitual basis, it was an irregular occurrence. His wife stands by him and is fully aware of what has happened."

"He deleted images as soon as he had viewed them. He understands these are real children in these images, he has well understood that."

The court was also informed that Holman was recently diagnosed with prostate cancer.

In relation to the Category A images, Judge Emma Peters said: "I have no desire to sully the atmosphere of the court by describing in detail what these movies showed."

"It is vile material that will affect them for the rest of their lives. You should hang your head in shame in ruining children's lives."

Despite representations from defence counsel to save the laptop, which Mrs Holman had been given by the British Legion in recognition for 23 years of service, Judge Peters ordered its destruction.

Judge Peters said: "You've been married for 43 years. You are a very lucky man to have such a loyal woman standing by you."

"The extreme pornography and the other images are also serious matters. You yourself admitted you have used these images for many years. People must be deterred from this kind of offending."

Holman was sentenced to a year imprisonment, suspended for two years, and 40 hours of rehabilitation activity for possession of the Category A images, and to six months imprisonment suspended two years for the extreme pornography and the Category B images, to run concurrently.

In addition, Holman will be on the Sex Offender's Register, as well as being subject to a Sexual Harm Prevention Order (SHPO), for 10 years, and was ordered to pay £365 in costs.

First

However, a further hearing will be made in the coming weeks to determine whether Holman's SHPO will have the additional requirement of a polygraph test, which could be the first requirement of its kind in the region.

Essex Police, following the lead from forces in the North of England, have requested that Holman be subject to lie detector tests as part of the order, to see whether he has complied with its terms.

Commenting on the matter, Judge Peters said: "Those who watch Jeremy Kyle know that they're not always as conclusive as some say."

ADMITTED CHARGES: Holman was given a suspended sentence

PROUD: Terry Card with Chihuahua Georgie

Owner and pet to have their day at dog show

POPULAR fundraiser Terry Card was planning to head to Crufts last week after his pet Chihuahua was nominated for an award.

The 81-year-old, of Latton Bush, Harlow, is well known for collecting donations for St Clare Hospice outside supermarkets with his two miniature dogs.

Mr Card also takes the canines into hospitals, care homes and hospices on behalf of charity Pets As Therapy to bring comfort and joy into the lives of patients going through a tough time.

On Friday, March 10, the pensioner was due take his furry friend Georgie to the NEC Arena in Birmingham for famous dog show Crufts.

Georgie was shortlisted as one of six finalists to find the HiLife PAT Dog of the Year.

Mr Card said: "When Georgie visits the neuro unit of Princess Alexandra Hospital he often interacts with people who have suffered brain damage.

"He sits on their bed and the reactions that the nurses record are very positive.

"He's so friendly, most of the blind patients know it's him as soon as they stroke him, it brings them so much joy.

Voting

"Everyone he works with is so proud of him and have of course been voting for him to win."

Georgie and the other five finalists were due to parade around the show arena before the top dog was announced as the winner of a cheque for £500.

The final five were chosen from a public vote.

Last week the Star reported Mr Card was targeted by scammers pretending to be from Sky but he is now looking forward to something more positive.

He added: "We will get the train down early in the morning and Georgie will have a little brush down the night before.

"I can't wait to see him have his big moment, he is doing so much good in the Harlow area and people light up when he is around.

"I'm glad I managed to get him as a rescue dog, he is so lovely and he's the star of the show."

SUCCESS: Holy Cross celebrate their good Ofsted

School praised for maintaining quality of education

A HARLOW primary school has maintained its 'good' Ofsted rating after a short inspection.

Holy Cross Catholic Primary School in Traces Road was visited at the end of January and staff are celebrating their continued success.

Ofsted inspector Linda

Killman compiled a report after a check-up on standards ahead of a full inspection in the future.

She wrote in a letter to head teacher Sue McGuigan: "The leadership team has maintained the good quality of education in the school since the last inspection.

"You have created a culture and ethos that focuses relentlessly on teaching and learning.

"You inspire staff to strive for the best possible outcomes for pupils' personal development and academic achievement.

"They hold you in high regard for this and are right behind you, fully in support of your passion for continuous improvement."

The inspector also noted Holy Cross has effective safeguarding in place and encouraged leaders to make sure the most able pupils are challenged in all subjects.

A spokesman from the school said: "The report continues to demonstrate the extremely high achievement at Holy Cross of which the whole school and parish community are justifiably proud."

Sporting friend's tributes to an 'amusing character'

Former cricket club member was integral to his team

HARLOW Town Cricket Club members are paying tribute to popular former player John Drewett, who has passed away aged 85.

Mr Drewett was an integral part of the team, then known as Stort Cricket Club, who were the dominant force on the local scene in the 1970s and 80s.

Thanks in part to his fast medium bowling the side won the former Marrant League in 1979, 1980 and 1981.

He leaves behind his wife Lily, children Robert and Carol and five grandchildren.

Martin Gladwin, club president and close friend, said: "His bowling was a handful for some of the best batsmen around.

"He was a great clubman who held numerous posts for the club from the late 1960s onwards.

"After retiring from the game John always tried to get to home games at Ash Tree Field to enjoy a pint, swap stories and give encouragement to all.

"He was a great character who will always be remembered, not only on the field, but by the many amusing stories that are being shared by those that played and socialised with him."

His funeral was held at Harlow Crematorium at Parndon Wood on Monday (March 13) and a wake was held at The Frank Pavese Pavilion at Ash Tree Field, Harlow.

Airport staff will donate confiscated food to charity

FOOD, drink and toiletries that are surrendered by people going through security at Stansted Airport will be donated to Harlow Foodbank.

The project, which initially started in September 2016, has been such a success that it is set to continue throughout the coming year.

Items taken during baggage checks have so far included tinned food such as baked beans, soups and fish as well as jars of jams, marmalades and pickles.

Security have also taken toiletries such as soaps and gift sets which have been donated.

Surrendered items, once delivered to the foodbank, are sorted and cleaned before being distributed back into the community to front-line agencies, homeless projects, school breakfast clubs, charities and more.

Food and drink is not permitted through airport security and any toiletries must not exceed 100ml.

These regulations have been in place for the past ten years.

Liz Brassington, environmental standards manager at Stansted Airport, said: "While we would urge our 24 million passengers to always prepare correctly for the strict security regulations before they leave home to avoid having to surrender items they are mistakenly carrying in their hand luggage, this partnership with Harlow Foodbank ensures many items are now going to a wide range of charitable groups and organisations in support of those in most need within the local community."

She added: "Stansted has long established very successful community and environmental initiatives, including diverting 99 per cent of our waste from landfill.

"This foodbank trial has been an excellent and innovative addition to our local programme of support and activity."

Gary Knott, of Harlow Foodbank and director of community services, added: "We really do value this new partnership with Stansted Airport which not only helps them recycle their unwanted items but also helps us to support local people in crisis and others finding it difficult to make ends meet each week.

"We are delighted this partnership will continue this year for the benefit of the community."

Visitors arrested for taking pictures of dealer in court

Pair sent to cells but no further action taken after 'stupid' mistake

By Conor Gogarty

observer@hertsexnews.co.uk

TWO Chelmsford Crown Court visitors were arrested for trying to take pictures of a drug dealer who was being jailed.

Afolabi Fasina and Van-Dai Pham, both 23 and from London, were charged with contempt of court for attempting to photograph Linus Itoya as he stood in the dock on Wednesday, March 8.

Itoya, who was jailed for three years for possession with intent to supply Class A drugs, is Fasina's cousin and Pham's friend.

Recorder Kenneth Carr decided not to take further action against the pair after a court officer arrested them and put them in the cells.

Itoya was jailed after police caught him with crack and heroin in Harlow back in December.

John Greenan, mitigating, said: "The two of them had cameras in their hands either taking photographs or appearing to take photographs of the defendant."

"Both are profusely sorry. They say they genuinely did not know, as stupid as it may seem, that you can't take a photo of somebody in court."

"It was a friend. He was going away and they weren't going to see him for a while."

Shocking

"Both seem to be men of good character aside from this glitch."

Fasina is an advertising and business student at Coventry University, while Pham works at a nail technicians.

Neither have previous convictions.

Recorder Carr told them: "I hope it was a deeply shocking experience for you to be taken into the cells."

"You will understand just how serious it is. It interferes with the course of public justice and it is a criminal offence."

He added: "Being arrested, going into the cells and understanding the gravity of what they have done is penalty enough. I don't want to blight their records."

Before they were allowed to leave Chelmsford Crown Court, the court officer who arrested them made sure any pictures they had taken were deleted.

Woman, 47, badly hurt after being hit by a car

A WOMAN has been seriously injured after she was hit by a car while crossing a road with her family.

The 47-year-old woman was hit by a silver Ford Focus in Southern Way, Harlow, at 7.30pm on Tuesday (March 14).

The Ford failed to stop after the incident and instead drove towards the A14. Police believe the car had a wing mirror smashed in the collision.

The woman, who suffered serious head injuries in the incident, was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital with life-changing injuries.

An unnamed resident said: "I heard it was a woman who had been hit. I saw an ambulance going along the road and the road was closed by police."

Police are appealing for anyone who saw the incident or has information about a damaged silver Ford Focus to get in touch with DC Jenny Pirie at the Serious Collision Investigation Unit at Boreham on 101 or email collisionappeal@essex.pnn.police.uk

Health watchdog report says GP surgery 'requires improvement'

A HEALTH watchdog has given a Harlow GP surgery a rating of 'requires improvement' in a critical report.

The Care Quality Commission (CQC) found Nuffield House Doctor's Surgery, in The Stow, below satisfactory in three of the five key areas of inspection.

In the document published on Monday, February 27, the surgery was marked as 'requires improvement' for being safe, effective and well-led.

Nuffield House was rated 'good' for being caring and responsive.

After a visit on October 27 last year CQC chief inspector professor Steve Field wrote: "Overall the practice is rated as 'requires improvement'."

"Not all staff carrying out the role of chaperone had received a DBS check and there was no risk assessment in place."

"The practice had not completed a health and safety risk assessment or an infection control audit in the last 12 months."

"The practice was aware of their clinical performance and where improvements were required they had a plan in place for improvement."

"However, exception reporting was much higher than national averages in relation to one mental health indicator."

In addition, CQC inspectors gave the same below-par rating to how well the surgery handles all six groups of people.

These are: Older people, people with long term conditions, families (children and young people), working age people, vulnerable people and people experiencing poor mental health.

The report gave a list of things Nuffield House must do in order to improve.

Town gets spick and span ahead of its 70th birthday celebrations

Volunteers turn out in support of the Great British Spring Clean-Up initiative

VOLUNTEERS across Harlow have been helping to tidy up the district as part of a national spring-clean and in preparation for the town's 70th birthday celebrations.

On Saturday March 4 Harlow Council volunteers and their families gathered at Hester House to collect litter along a route which included Morley Grove, Rectory Wood and Hamstel Road.

The area was chosen for this particular litter pick by e-adviser at Harlow Council, Daniela Briggs, who lives near Rectory Wood.

Initiative

"I knew about this spring clean initiative, and particularly love this area so I thought I'm going to organise a litter pick that's near and on my doorstep. It's such a beautiful area," she said.

"I just love the area but it's horrible that it's full up of bottles and burger packets, especially in the woods, and I know that it is regularly picked by the council as well."

She continued: "I think we ought to be teaching our children from a young age to take responsibility and so getting kids involved will hopefully stop them from becoming litter droppers themselves in the future."

SMILES: Harlow Council volunteers with their family and friends

The Harlow Council volunteers successfully collected a total of 17 bags of litter.

The Great British Spring Clean-Up began in 2015 and strives to bring together communities to help clear up any litter in towns, villages, the countryside and more.

This year, Harlow volunteers including those from The Downs Primary School and Nursery, Great Parndon residents, the Harlow Sunday Walkers and Junior Park Run, will all contribute to the campaign's goal of inspiring 500,000 people to help clear up any rubbish. Becci Court, project development co-ordinator at Harlow Council, said: "The Spring Clean-Up is part of a national campaign initiated by keep Britain Tidy, and Harlow Council thought it would be a good idea to roll it out in the town ahead of 'Harlow is 70' events."

She added: "When we came here I was thinking there won't be anything to litter pick but if you go into woods and areas that aren't covered every day, then there will be and especially when people hang out at night there might be beer cans and that type of thing."

Register

"The way the British Spring Clean organised it is that different groups go out and register on the website and can do their own spring clean and this was our way. So hopefully we'll make a difference."

She continued: "I think Harlow is a very clean area if you go up and down the roads."

"The council employs HTS and I think we're really lucky with the new arrangements, they've got new equipment to be brought on site."

"I do a lot of dog walking and I'm forever walking behind HTS staff picking the cycle tracks of litter."

"I think they do a good job." ■ For information about Harlow is 70 events visit: www.harlow.gov.uk/harlow-70

TOGETHER: Rainbow services help the elderly

Music to celebrate the town's 70 years and help the lonely

RAINBOW Services is preparing to hold an event that works to tackle isolation and loneliness in older people in the run up to the town's 70th birthday.

The charity, which works in partnership with the Great Parndon Community Association (GPCA), serves Harlow people and helps to look after the community.

Afternoon tea and live entertainment will be on offer at the event which will take place on Saturday March 25 from 1.30pm until 4.30pm at the GPCA in Abercrombie Way.

Choir

Passmores Academy choir will also be performing songs, one from each decade since the new town began in 1947, before singer Diane Moore takes to the stage.

It is hoped around 200 people will attend. Tickets are free but booking is recommended in order to avoid disappointment.

Rainbow Services also runs clubs during the week and the launch of its latest one at the end of February was well attended.

Rainbow Services has received support from businesses in the town including from both Tesco Edinburgh Way and Tesco Church Langley as well as WPA, a plumbing supply company in Bush Fair, and many more.

For more information visit rainbowservices.org.uk/ or call 01279 308150.

Motorist in dock over teen's death

A HARLOW woman has appeared in court to face accusations of causing a teenager's death by careless or inconsiderate driving.

Tammy Howard, 40, and of Rushes Mead, appeared at Chelmsford Magistrates' Court on Wednesday March 8, but entered no plea to the charge, relating to the death of motorcyclist Liam Brown, 18, in a collision on May 25.

The defendant was driving her black Mini along First Avenue towards the A414 London Road at the time of the incident.

Mr Brown suffered serious head injuries and died in hospital on May 29.

The case was adjourned to be heard at Chelmsford Crown Court on April 5.

SUCCESSFUL: BATTS Table Tennis Club

Friendships, table tennis and walks make us happy

Residents share some of their favourite things about Harlow

HARLOW New Town is turning 70 in 2017 and to celebrate the Observer is asking residents to share their favourite things about the area. Each week we will share a few thoughts from residents about what makes Harlow great. Here are entries 17 to 19...

■ 17. Sandra Davies, Harlow resident of 27 years.
Favourite thing about Harlow: Community
"I have lived in many places but it is only since coming to Harlow 27 years ago that I found out what community life means.

"It is so lovely to be part of a community where I can walk out and bump into someone I know nearly every time I pop out. Harlow has given me a very happy home and a real sense of belonging.

"It is here that I have met and made some very special friends, which I've never really had anywhere else. I love living here.

"My husband joined me here from London nine years ago and he has found the same welcoming and friendly community as I did.

"He is very happy here too."

■ 18. David Wright, Harlow resident of 62 years

Favourite thing about Harlow: Table tennis

"I started playing table tennis when I was 11 at Harlow Sports Centre which was then in Hammarskjold Road.

"Later a group of players moved to facilities at Brays Grove School and Burnt Mill School.

"The Harlow Table Tennis League thrived, with numerous factory teams joining the league.

"By 1975 there were 11 divisions with 12 teams in each division which amounted to approximately 800 players.

"In 2006, my friend Neil Brierley put in a successful bid to Harlow Council to take over management of the Norman Booth Centre in Old Harlow, with fellow volunteer trustees Eric Todd, Sharon Head and me.

"The centre is named after a GP who worked at the Jenner House Practice in Old Harlow.

"The BATTS name was adopted (short for Burnt Mill Academy of Table Tennis Skills) and it is now the most successful table tennis club in the country.

"BATTs has a team in the Premier Division of the British league, which involves international players playing to a very high standard."

■ 19. Susan Eggleton, of Markwell Wood, Harlow

Favourite thing about Harlow:

Parndon Wood Nature Reserve
"My favourite place is Parndon Wood Nature Reserve, which I feel lucky to have on my doorstep.

"It is beautiful, peaceful and unspoilt and nice to walk in at any time of the year.

"It is easy to feel like you are completely away from everything.

"The nearby Parndon Wood Crematorium is also a tranquil wooded haven and a touching way to remember your loved ones by.

"The Parndon Wood area of Harlow has so much natural beauty about it and a real air of serenity.

"The welcome green belt in Harlow is a rare thing and unlike other areas in Essex that get built on all too readily.

Dog Calli brings joy to readers at primary

PUPILS at a Harlow primary school are developing their reading under the watchful eyes of a dog.

Instead of reading stories to a teacher youngsters at Abbotsweld Primary Academy, in Partridge Road, are now being overseen by Calli the six-year-old labrador retriever.

Assistant head teacher Nahasha Nee said: "Research has shown how children can benefit educationally and emotionally through contact with a suitable dog.

Reading

"Calli has been fundamental to supporting children with reading at Abbotsweld, as well as increasing their understanding of responsibility, empathy and nurturing skills.

"It is amazing to see the newfound love of reading and the sheer excitement on the children's faces when they know they are going to get the opportunity to read to Calli.

"She has quickly become part of our school and she has given me a new connection with the children."

Gerry, nine, and ten-year-old Ellie (both pictured) were two of the pupils to enjoy Calli's company.

Lily challenges Down's myths with model look

Two-year-old now the smile of Matalan

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A PHOTO of a girl with Down syndrome is hanging in every Matalan store nationwide after she won a modelling contract.

The family of two-year-old Lily Beddall, of Church Walk, Sawbridgeworth, are proud of her achievement and say the toddler recognised herself in the Harlow branch.

Her mother Vicki Beddall, 37, who previously lived in Harlow, said: "She is the face of her age group and her photo is in every Matalan in the UK.

Charity

"It came about because we are involved with Harlow charity Upwards with Downs. Matalan wanted a child model who had Down syndrome and the agency contacted and asked if they had models.

"They phoned us and we said we would like to do it. She had the photos taken at the end of November."

CHOSEN: Lily Beddall

Down syndrome is a genetic condition that causes some level of learning and physical disability. This includes having eyes slanting upwards and outwards and reduced muscle tone.

The new pictures were put in Matalan stores nationwide at the beginning of this month.

Mrs Beddall, a full time mother and former proof reader, said: "The contract is all about inclusion and changing the face of beauty. It is wonderful that Matalan chose a child with Down syndrome.

"We are so proud of her and we are so proud of everything she has achieved. It is the best thing to have happened to us.

Work

"Down syndrome is not what you expect. It is hard work sometimes, but she was going to be hard work anyway as she is two years old!

"She has lots of friends and she is not unable to do anything that other children do."

Lily has two brothers Charlie, 19, and Ben, 21. Her mother is expecting another child with Lily's father Eddie.

Mrs Beddall previously lived in Harlow for 18 years and moved to Sawbridgeworth five years ago.

She added: "We took her into Matalan and she signed her name and said Lily.

"I would like to thank Upwards with Downs who have been a massive help to us."

Vile paedophile left his victim weeping on her bedroom floor

Online predator escapes incarceration

By Richard Duggan
richard.duggan@essexlive.news

A SOBBING paedophile who left his nine-year-old victim crying on her bedroom floor was spared jail as a judge decided to give him a chance at "rehabilitation".

Anthony Nicholson-Wisbey, of Frating Court, Braintree, started a sexually explicit conversation with a young Canadian girl online, asking for naked photos and threatening to expose the girl if she didn't do what he said.

His vile actions, conducted on August 24, 2014 while he was living in Chelmsford, were only uncovered when the girl's mother "found her crying in the foetal position on her bedroom floor".

Nicholson-Wisbey, now 21, appeared before Chelmsford Crown Court on Friday March 10, having pleaded guilty to inciting a young girl to engage in sexual activity and three counts of possession of indecent images, ranging from Category A to Category C.

The court heard that initially, the child, who cannot be named for legal reasons, told Nicholson-Wisbey that she was 15.

Outlining the facts of the case, prosecutor Emma Nash explained how the then 18-year-old incited the young girl to engage in sexual acts and send pictures of herself.

Intimate

She said: "As he sent more intimate requests and ramped up the level, she started to refuse."

"His response was to tell her that from her IP address, he could tell where she lived, would print out all the images and post them to her address."

"She made it clear she was scared. Before long she told him she was 10, although she was actually nine."

"From the images he would've known she wasn't 15. She looked like a pre-pubescent child."

Whenever the victim declined to comply with his extremely sexual requests, the defendant would repeat his threats of sending the images to her family, or that he would hack her phone.

SOBBED: Anthony Nicholson-Wisbey

Ms Nash described the defendant's tone as sinister, controlling and nasty.

At one point in the exchange, Nicholson-Wisbey had actually told his victim that he was a 15-year-old girl, and by the end had demanded that she declare her love for him.

The incident, which was reported to the Canadian authorities, led to the arrest of Nicholson-Wisbey, then 20, on May 12, 2015.

Officers seized devices belonging to the defendant, and although none had any trace of the online conversation, an HTC mobile phone contained 49 moving and still images of indecent pornography unrelated to the child.

A victim impact statement, written by the victim's mother, highlighted the trauma suffered by the nine-year-old.

She wrote: "This has changed our lives forever. She never slept in her room again from that day."

"She learned at a really young age what debilitating anxiety was. She completely lost her self-worth. She did not know that there were people in the world who would manipulate her."

Nicholson-Wisbey cried intermittently throughout the sentencing, but sobbed uncontrollably when defence counsel Sarah Vine spoke in mitigation.

Ms Vine said: "The defendant was an adult, but he was only just an adult. His words to me were 'I have ruined a young girl's life. I deserve whatever is coming to me.'"

"The journey to this point of remorse has not been simple. These are exceptionally difficult offences to admit to. It takes a kind of courage rarely seen in these courts to admit such offending and its consequences."

Ms Vine argued that while a custodial sentence would punish her client, there would be a wider benefit to society for a sentence that would allow him to change his behaviour.

Judge Emma Peters, who allowed a shaking and crying Nicholson-Wisbey to sit as she passed sentence, said he was an "inadequate man" who instead of pursuing relationships in the real world, had locked himself away online.

"You were bullied as a child and you reacted to that by pursuing a life in the virtual world, instead of a real life with real people," she said. "You became a loner, only comfortable in a quiet room, sexually gratifying yourself with people on a screen."

Rehabilitate

She told Nicholson-Wisbey that if she stuck rigidly to the sentencing guidelines, he could face an immediate prison sentence of up to eight years.

"The question is whether I do what the guidelines say I should and send you to prison to punish you and deter others from this kind of offending or do I pass a sentence that could reform and rehabilitate you," Judge Peters added.

As Nicholson-Wisbey muttered apologies, Judge Peters chose the more lenient approach, suspending his two-year prison sentence and giving him a spot on a rehabilitation course. A Sexual Harm Prevention Order was put in place for 10 years and he will be on the Sex Offenders' Register for the same period.

Car chase inmate found dead in jail

FOUND DEAD: Timothy Shaw

AN inmate who died at Chelmsford Prison had previously been jailed after a police chase through Essex.

Timothy Shaw was named by the Ministry of Justice on March 8 after being found dead in the prison on Thursday, February 28.

The Ministry of Justice announced that the Prisons and Probation Ombudsman would carry out an independent investigation into the death, in addition to an ongoing inquiry looking at the four deaths in Chelmsford Prison over the past 18 months.

Shaw, 34, was jailed for six years back in July after pleading guilty to three counts of robbery, theft of a motor vehicle, two counts of shoplifting, taking without consent and dangerous driving.

He was arrested after fleeing from police officers in Billericay in January of last year, ramming officers' cars and abandoning the Nissan Micra in Basildon.

Essex Police said the death was being treated as "unexplained".

EXCITEMENT: Principal Karen Spencer, in pink, with Mayor Edna Stephens and the engineering team

Future's bright for college as it opens £11m engineering centre

Halfon says attending launch party is 'one of my most wonderful days as an MP'

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW College hope to produce a highly skilled workforce with their £11 million Advanced Manufacturing and Engineering Centre (AMEC).

The project is linked to Harlow Enterprise Zone and will offer students the chance to earn qualifications and apprenticeships with local businesses.

The enterprise zone, combined with Public Health England's move into Harlow, has created a need for graduates with skills in sciences and engineering.

Students rubbed shoulders with town leaders at a launch party on Friday, March 10.

PLAQUE: Karen Spencer and Robert Halfon MP

Karen Spencer, principal of Harlow College, said: "I looked at the business in Harlow and I looked at what employers were saying. I thought we could be doing so much more. It has taken three years for this to happen. It has been a lot of hard work. We are certain it will be the right thing for our students. Harlow Enterprise Zone is the future.

Popularity

"We were struggling for space because of our popularity."

Robert Halfon, MP for Harlow, cut the ribbon and said: "This is a very special day, one of my most wonderful days as Harlow MP."

"What we have opened is an incredible advanced manufacturing centre which will give students the chance to learn the technical skills they need.

"This is for Harlow. This is going to be invested in Harlow."

Students started taking courses in January at the centre, which was designed by AD Architects, but the official opening marks the end of a long journey.

Will Allanson, executive of business development at Harlow, said: "It is the climax of four years and I could not have wished for more."

"I am really pleased."

Harlow College student Andy Curtin said: "The building is very impressive and has a clean feel. It really stands out and although I'm not massively into construction and engineering, it definitely makes me feel a lot more interested on what's going on here."

PERSONAL SHOPPER (15)

THE super-rich and the supernatural collide head-on in Olivier Assayas' tantalising character study, which charts the emotional breakdown of a celebrity gopher, who moonlights as a medium.

Personal Shopper unfolds in a world of red carpet couture and social media self-promotion, and is blessed with a mesmerising lead performance from Kristen Stewart (pictured), who won a Cesar – the French equivalent of the Oscar – for her role in Assayas' previous film, Clouds Of Sils Maria.

Stewart is equally compelling here, teasing back the layers of her emotionally brittle protagonist, who slaloms through bustling streets on her moped, collecting dresses and parcels for her largely unseen boss.

It's an unshowy yet powerful portrayal of a young woman, unhinged by grief, who is desperately waiting for a sign from beyond the grave that life does perpetuate after the end credits roll.

Literal and metaphorical ghosts haunt the shadowy frames of Assayas' perplexing mystery, and he allows them to materialise courtesy of unobtrusive special effects to hint at the direction of his menacing narrative.

Nothing can prepare you, however, for the spiralling madness of the picture's final 20 minutes, including a bemusing epilogue on the Arabian Peninsula that could – and arguably should – have been excised in its entirety.

Stewart plays Maureen Cartwright, personal slave to a celebrity called Kyra (Nora von Waldstätten), who needs an underling to manage her diary and collect an endless array of loaned gowns from design houses.

Maureen has a similar build and frame to her employer, but she is forbidden from trying on the dresses. While she carries out her duties, Maureen has the onerous task of listening to the woes of Kyra's clingy boyfriend who is convinced that he is about to be dumped.

As she caters to various whims, Maureen finds time to indulge her fascination with the supernatural. Before her twin brother Lewis died, he vowed to make contact with Maureen from the other side and she waits expectantly for a tangible sign of his protective spirit.

Spookily, she begins to receive text messages from someone who refuses to reveal their identity. These cryptic communications shepherd Maureen towards unexpected tragedy and – possibly – proof of life after death.

Personal Shopper refuses to abide by well-worn conventions, avoiding jump-out-of-the-seat shocks in favour of slow-burning suspense.

Stewart emits a haunting glow, even when the lights go out on plausibility in Assayas' script, performing for extended periods with just her smartphone.

Familiar charm

If it's not Baroque, don't fix it. Those immortal words, uttered in jest by Cogsworth the talking clock in the 1991 animated Beauty And The Beast during a guided tour of his master's castle, are largely heeded by director Bill Condon for this ravishing live action remake.

The charm, sweetness, heart-tugging romance, infectious songs and rumbustious humour of the original – Disney's finest hand-drawn animation – have been lovingly polished by screenwriters Stephen Chbosky and Evan Spiliotopoulos.

They embellish perfection with original flourishes to set this handsomely-mounted tale as old as time apart from its predecessor, including melancholic flashbacks and a curious interlude of time travel that confirms the grim fate of Belle's mother.

A few favourite moments, which work beautifully in animated form, but might seem outlandish in the flesh, have been lost in translation, including Gaston's virtuoso egg juggling and Belle's serenade to a flock of hungry sheep.

Verses of the Oscar-winning songbook composed by Alan Menken with lyrics by Howard Ashman have been nipped and tucked, then heightened with lush orchestration.

Three sparkling new ballads, courtesy of Menken and lyricist Tim Rice, sit handsomely in this exalted musical company including a soaring lament of longing for the Beast entitled Evermore that swoons, "I let her steal into my melancholy heart/It's more than I can bear." Us too.

Strong-willed bookworm Belle (Emma Watson) continues to rebuff the amorous advances of preening Gaston (Luke Evans), who

Emma Watson stars as Belle and Dan Stevens plays the Beast in Disney's big-budget remake wonders how he'll know when he is in love.

"You'll feel nauseous!" retorts manservant Le Fou (Josh Gad).

Before Gaston can find out, Belle trades places with her inventor father Maurice (Kevin Kline) as eternal prisoner of an accursed Beast (Dan Stevens) in his crumbling stronghold.

The gloom of incarceration is lifted by the kindness of enchanted servants including tightly-wound clock Cogsworth (Sir Ian McKellen), flirtatious candlestick Lumiere (Ewan McGregor), and clinking teapot Mrs Potts (Emma Thompson) and her teacup son, Chip (Nathan Mack).

As petals of an enchanted rose fall, Belle glimpses beneath the fur of her tormented host and acknowledges that "there may be something there that wasn't there before".

Distinguished by stunning production design, this Beauty And The Beast doesn't quite scale the dizzy heights of its animated predecessor, but comes delightfully close.

Watson is a spirited heroine and is blessed with a sweet singing voice, and Stevens teases out the humanity of his fallen prince.

Both cede the limelight to the twin comic tornadoes of Evans and Gad, who elevate their homoerotic bromance and bring the tavern down with the lyrically wicked sing-along Gaston.

Lumiere's eye-popping Busby Berkeley-esque Be Our Guest is still a showstopper, augmented with shimmering digital effects, and the title song performed by Thompson brings a lump to the throat.

Not once but twice upon a time, Condon's film promises and delivers a delightfully happy every after.

Smart horror with a sharp satirical edge

GET OUT (15) ★★★★★

INSPIRED by the creeping dread of The Stepford Wives, Jordan Peele's slickly engineered horror is a razor-sharp satire, which takes a scalpel to simmering racial tensions in present day America.

Get Out prescribes shocking violence and laughter in equal measures, carefully exposing the ignorance that simmers beneath the surface of polite middle-class liberalism.

When the script bares its polished teeth, it draws plenty of blood from the nail-biting battle of wits between a gifted black twentysomething artist and his white future in-laws, who believe voting for an African American president is a badge of honour.

Peele takes this clash of cultures to the unsettling extreme, engineering a series of hairpin twists that reveal the sick and twisted design behind his suburban nightmare.

In early scenes, including a horrific encounter with a deer, Get Out revels in our discomfort, creating a prickle of impending doom like an infuriating itch you can't quite reach.

Once the Machiavellian masterplan is revealed, some of that tension dissipates and Peele's film falls back on familiar tropes to resolve the stand-off.

Get Out is a smart descent into psychological hell, punctuated by giggles courtesy of a character whose paranoid delusions might be rooted in reality.

Writer-director Peele sustains dramatic momentum and drip feeds us teasing clues until he is ready to begin the blood-letting in lip-smacking earnest.

SOUND OUT

I can give up smoking, drinking, coke...but not sugar

Robbie Williams tells MARION McMULLEN why his remaining vice is the hardest to quit as he gets in shape for his next tour

THE Easter Bunny could well find his name joining those of Gary Barlow, the cast of Coronation Street, Alan Titchmarsh and Bake Off queen Mary Berry on Robbie Williams party blacklist.

Robbie and his wife Ayda Field were the first famous faces to appear in the I'm A Celebrity... Get Me Out Of Ear slot on Ant & Dec's Saturday Night Takeaway last weekend masquerading as new pub owners meeting a series of party planners.

The prank saw him talking one of the planners through who to invite, with Robbie jokingly pointing out: "I've got a guest list of people to not invite. Gary Barlow obviously. That's a no. Alan Titchmarsh, I don't want coming. All of Coronation Street. Apart from Gail Platt's son, I like him. Mary Berry. I think that's it. I definitely put Gary Barlow as a no?"

The Rock DJ singer says it was all done in the spirit of fun and he had seen Louis Walsh, Richard Madeley and Cheryl take part in the ITV show's prank slot before and loved it. But he found it a challenge when faced with the cameras himself and Ant and Dec speaking in his ear.

"It was so hard to combat the awkwardness," he admits. "I couldn't believe how awkward I felt doing it, but as it went on it became more fun. At the start there is such a huge pressure not to mess anything up. There are so many people and cameras, but Mary Berry? Aaargh, that was just a gag too far for me."

However, Robbie might have no qualms about making the Easter Bunny persona non grata. He is getting in shape for his upcoming Heavy Entertainment Show Tour and says it is tough to stick to his punishing regimen.

"I'm an extreme person. I gave up everything that is naughty and then went out exercising for three hours. I went and threw myself at it and my body called out 'You're 43 now. Have a bit of a bad back instead.'"

He jokes: "I'm like Frank Spencer. I mean well, but inevitably I'll f*ck up." He explains: "I'm really a person who could be morbidly obese. I'm in a constant battle with sugar. I can give up smoking, drinking, coke. I can stop all these things but chocolate. I'm testament to that."

He laughs: "I can mainline Cadbury's... whatever they have got on offer. They have a new chocolate with popping candy and this jelly or, I don't know, gelatine filling and there is this Cadbury's marshmallows thing as well."

"In 20 years time, people will probably be looking at sugar the same way they look at cigarettes now. It will be the devil and people will be asking 'Are you still doing that?'"

The temptation of chocolate Easter eggs is looming, but Robbie has time to prepare for his European tour, which will take him to 18 countries. It kicks off in the UK in June and includes dates in Manchester, Coventry, Cardiff and London before heading to the Continent and ending in Russia in September.

The born showman is keeping details of what's in store for audiences strictly under wraps for the moment and says he does not want to self sabotage the tour by revealing too much.

However, he can't resist adding: "It's going to be a big production tour with lots of showmanship and songs that people might know."

Stoke-on-Trent's famous son has spent a large chunk of his life in the public spotlight, from his early days with Take That to his solo career, which recently led to him being awarded the prestigious Brits Icon Award. It is the highest accolade given by the Brits and has previously only been presented to Sir Elton John and David Bowie.

But fame can come at a price and he says being in the limelight can be "scary and annoying at the same time."

"The life I have can be quite agoraphobic, more out of necessity that anything else, it's

Robbie promises a spectacular show when he hits the road on his European tour

Iconic: Performing at the Brits

just how it is," he explains. "I signed up for this life and I love my job, but the attention is one of the side effects of the medicine."

His wife Ayda and their children Theodora (known as Teddy), and Charlie are the centre of his world and he says with simple pride: "My wife is my best friend. My mate. I live with my best friend and my best friend's mother. My mum comes to the house as well and so does my dad."

"My children know what I do, but they don't know what it means. Teddy knows I go and sing and that's my job." He adds with a laugh: "But Charlie is only two and has not got a clue."

So are Teddy or Charlie showing any early signs of following in his footsteps? "I'd be shocked if Teddy didn't go into the entertainment industry in some form or other," he says. "She's only four-and-a-half, but she is so dramatic and makes up her own songs. I think it must be in her DNA. She just does it. It's so cute to watch."

"I have to admit I would be really thrown if she ever said she wanted to be a doctor or a lawyer. I think she is more likely to follow me. You've got to be encouraging and support whatever they want to do."

ED SHEERAN - DIVIDE

FRESH from the chart success of singles Castle On The Hill and Shape Of You – both of which he performed at the 2017 Brit Awards, the latter with Stormzy in a surprise collaboration – 26-year-old Ed Sheeran returns with this third full-length album, after a two-year hiatus.

Fans who missed his rapping will be excited by Sheeran dropping some rhymes and spitting verses in opening track Eraser.

There's so much on this LP, which comes three years after 2014's x (Multiply) and six years after his 2011 debut Plus, to keep listeners happy.

Ballad-lovers will enjoy love songs Perfect, Dive and How Would You Feel (Paean), while those looking for up-tempo tunes will be thrilled by the socially relevant What Do I Know? and the craic-happy Galway Girl. Sheeran also relives his childhood and teenage memories in Castle On The Hill, a lively ode to his hometown of Framlingham.

With catchy choruses and hummable melodies, Divide – which is already breaking records, and predicted to outsell Adele's 25 and Oasis' Here Right Now – would be the perfect conclusion to top off a trilogy, but with two more maths-themed albums planned, Sheeran has surely found the winning formula.

CIRCA WAVES - DIFFERENT CREATURES

LIVERPOOL indie rockers Circa Waves are back with Different Creatures, and it is definitely worth the wait.

Led by singles Wake Up and Fire That Burns, this album is an 11-track masterpiece. Their sound has matured and the tracks are heavier, but they still have that same pop-rock edge that saw the band shoot to fame with festival favourite T-Shirt Weather.

Crying Shame and Without You are the pick of the bunch, but every track could be a standout in its own right for different reasons. The band's upcoming UK tour with this record will be epic.

LAURA MARLING - SEMPER FEMINA

THE sprightliness of Laura Marling's debut, Alas, I Cannot Swim, is absent on this, her sixth record.

Instead of spryness, a thoughtful mellowness pervades on Semper Femina (meaning "always woman", taken from Virgil's poem Aeneid – "Woman is always fickle and changeable").

Gentle, graceful and muted, it's a slick of spare, yet highly crafted songs that disassemble and examine perspectives of women.

Folk dissolves into country tones and fuzzy guitar on Nothing Not Nearly, the intimate, tender Nouel is raw and exposing, while Always This Way pitches and sways with lyrics that reverberate with questions.

It's an accomplished and touching record, but this is Laura Marling, we've come to expect no less.

FOOD & DRINK

INGREDIENTS

For the pastry:
200g flour, 100g butter, 50g egg (about 1), Pinch of salt

For the jam:
100g raspberries, 100g sugar, Lemon juice, if needed

For the creme patisserie:
375ml milk, vanilla pod, 60g egg yolk, 90g caster sugar, 30g corn flour, 30g flour
To decorate:
Fresh fruit (Georgia uses blueberries, raspberries and blackberries, but you can choose what you like), Gold leaf or dust (optional)

METHOD

1. To make the pastry, rub the flour, salt and butter together to form a sand-like consistency. Add the egg and combine until dough is formed. Chill in fridge until firm (15 minutes).
2. Blind bake in your tin with baking beans on 200°C for 12 minutes, until the edges start to crisp, then remove the beans and cook until light and golden (10 minutes).
3. For the creme patisserie, scrape the seeds from the vanilla pod into the milk and heat up until steaming.
4. Whisk together the yolk and sugar until light and creamy. Sift in the flours and combine.

5. Pour half the milk into the egg mix, then pour all the mix into the milk pan and stir until thickened and bubbling.

6. Transfer onto a flat tray and cover with cling film until cool.
7. Whisk up again until the mix is smooth, and fill a piping bag.
8. To make the jam, mix the raspberries and sugar in a pan and bring up to 107°C. Pour onto a flat tray and leave to cool. If the mixture is too thick, add lemon juice to loosen it up.
9. To assemble your tart, spread a layer of jam on to the base of the pastry. Pipe over the creme patisserie. Pipe some larger drops of creme patisserie on the top, then scatter the fruit and finish off with some gold leaf or dust.

A HOME-MADE CAKE FOR MOTHER'S DAY (MARCH 26) IS HARD TO BEAT. BLOGGER AND BAKER TO THE STARS GEORGIA GREEN SHARES THREE SHOW-STOPPING RECIPES

Georgia Green, left, has shared three cracking cake recipes for Mothering Sunday. Visit her website at (georgias-cakes.co.uk)

INGREDIENTS

For the cake:
250g butter, 250g caster sugar, 250g self raising flour, 200g eggs (about 4), 1tsp vanilla extract
For the buttercream:
500g icing sugar, 150g softened butter, 60ml milk, 1 vanilla pod, Pink food colouring
To decorate (optional):
Fresh fruit macarons, meringue kisses, white chocolate shards, strawberries, flowers

METHOD

1. To make the cake, melt the butter then mix together with the caster sugar. Add the eggs and mix through, then the flour and vanilla until incorporated.
2. Divide equally into two six-inch cake tins and bake at 180°C for 30-40 minutes, until they are cooked through.
3. For the buttercream, beat together the icing sugar, butter and milk and add the seeds from the vanilla pod. Keep beating until the mixture is light and fluffy.

4. Once the cakes have cooled, cut into two layers so you have a total of four layers of cake.

5. Put the first layer onto a cake board or plate with a little buttercream underneath so it doesn't slip. Pipe or spread some buttercream onto the layer of cake and sandwich another on top. Repeat until you get to the last cake, being sure to turn the final layer upside down, so the top is the flat part from the cake tin.

6. Smother buttercream over the whole layered cake and scrape away the excess (this is called crumb coating).

7. Refrigerate or freeze for 20 minutes until the buttercream has hardened.

8. In a separate bowl, mix a

couple of heaped tablespoons of buttercream with some food colouring to get a dark colour. Spread a thin layer of the coloured buttercream around the bottom of the cake.
9. Add some more white buttercream to the coloured one to make a lighter shade, and spread it on the cake just above the layer you just did.

10. Repeat until you get to the top, where you want to spread white buttercream on the top layer and the top of the cake.

11. Use a scraper or palate knife to go around the cake, smooth out the sides and you should achieve the ombre effect.

12. Even out the top of the cake so it's flat and decorate with fruit, flowers and sweet treats, or however you like!

I'M SO, so happy that spring is round the corner. I'm not a winter person, even though I enjoy all those hearty red wines with warming casseroles and big roasts.

Now the birds are tweeting and the blossom is peeping out, it's time to think of the lighter days ahead and rejoice.

Here's a handful of wines to welcome in the new season.

■ Villa Maria Reserve Vineyard Wairau Valley Sauvignon Blanc 2016 (£13.99 or £11.99 in a buy six deal at Majestic, 13.5% abv): The grapes for this wine come from premium vineyards in the Wairau Valley in New Zealand.

RAISE A GLASS

WITH JANE CLARE

Oh my, just an intake of breath above the glass and my mouth begins to water.

A good NZ sauvignon blanc has intensity, juiciness and freshness that just can't be beaten when your senses need a wake-up call.

The aromas are tropical with passion fruit and nectarines, with the dryness of gooseberry and a hint of herbs. Citrus flavours are intense and the acidity is bright and zingy.

Don't just sip it but allow it to linger in your mouth and take a moment to enjoy that wake-up call!

■ Zalze Bush Vines Chenin Blanc (RRP £8.29, Morrisons, Booths, Waitrose, 13% abv): Last Friday night I ordered some comfort food in the form of a Thai takeaway a) because I was lazy b) well, it was Friday and c) I craved a good burst of spice.

I poured a little of this wine while waiting for the delivery.

South Africa has kind of adopted this grape which has its homeland in France and this wine has subtle aromas of tropical fruits and zesty lime which are also reflected in the flavours.

The wine's citrus freshness was a good complement to the hot bite of Thai noodles (I'd eagerly gone overboard on the chilli request).

■ Mount Rozier Wild Peacock Chardonnay 2016 (£7, Sainsbury's, 13.5% abv):

Chardonnay is the most flexible of grapes. It can grow almost anywhere; it can be oaked; it can be blended; it is a classic champagne grape; it can be buttery, creamy nose and a touch of that cream comes through in the mouth – but only a touch. There's also a good flash of acidity and citrus flavours which tingle.

■ Blind Spot Yarra Valley Rosé 2016 (£7.95, thewinesociety.com, 14.5% abv): As a contrast to the whites, how about a springtime pink? The Wine Society's Blind Spot range features Australian parcels of grapes that would normally be used in blends, but the society has collaborated with Australian wine expert Mac Forbes to give these grapes a voice of their own.

This pink is a luscious deep cerise colour and is made from syrah grapes grown in the Yarra Valley which is just north-east of Melbourne.

The nose is sedate with blackcurrant leaf and subtle cherry, and to taste, there's a flash of pepper alongside black cherry flavours.

INGREDIENTS

For the genoise sponge:

200g eggs (about 4), 40g egg yolk, 150g caster sugar, 150g plain flour, 24g melted butter

For the creme patisserie:

500ml milk, 1 vanilla pod, 80g egg yolk, 120g caster sugar, 40g plain flour, 40g corn flour, 300g softened butter

To decorate:

2 punnets fresh strawberries, extra fruit, icing sugar, sugar syrup (equal measures of caster sugar and water)

METHOD

1. Starting with the genoise, whisk together the eggs, yolk and sugar until ribbon stage (thick enough for you to write with it in the mixture).
2. Sift in half the flour and gently fold, then add the remaining flour. Once combined, add the melted butter and fold in.
3. Pour into two mousse rings (or cake tins with removable bases) – one eight inches and one four inches – and cook at 180°C for 20 minutes, until the cake springs back and a knife comes out clean.
4. For the creme patisserie, scrape the vanilla seeds into the milk and heat until it's steaming.
5. While it's heating, whisk together the yolks and caster

TIERS FOR CHEERS

GEORGIA'S TWO-TIER

sugar until pale. Sift in both flours and whisk together to combine.

6. Pour half of the hot milk into the sugar/egg/flour and mix in, then add this mixture back to the milk pan where the rest of the milk already is, and whisk while cooking back on the heat. This will begin to thicken, so keep whisking until it starts to boil (you will see bubbles try to escape from the bottom!).

7. Take off the heat, transfer onto a tray, spread it flat, cover tightly with cling film and leave to cool.

8. Once cool, whisk back up and gradually add the softened butter to achieve the correct consistency.

9. When the cake is cooked, remove from the tin and wash the tin ring up – you will need this for assembly.

10. Trim the top of the cooled genoise sponge so it's flat, and keep this aside (try not to eat it!). Then, cut the remaining sponge cake in half, as neatly as possible so you now have two layers.

11. Put one of the layers back in the mousse ring (which should now be on cake board to serve), press down and coat with sugar syrup.

12. Cut the stalks from the strawberries and cut in half lengthways. Arrange these around the rim of the mousse tin, facing outwards.

13. Fill any gaps between the strawberries with the creme patisserie (a piping bag will help). Then spread out a generous layer of creme patisserie on the bottom.

14. With the spare trimming of the sponge, soak in sugar syrup and place in the centre. If any strawberries are left over, cut them into smaller cubes and gather them on top of this layer of sponge. Then add the remaining creme patisserie and cover all of the cake right up to the top of the tin.

15. When the creme patisserie is smoothed out, gently lift up the mousse ring, and the alignment of strawberries should be neat and visible. Now the top layer of genoise can be placed on top, with a quick dusting of icing sugar.

16. Repeat for the smaller cake, then arrange the fruit to decorate over the top and finish with a dusting of icing sugar.

PAST TIMES

With Harry Secombe and Cliff Richard in 1975

COMEDIAN Harry Secombe once joked: "Churchill didn't beat the Nazis. Vera sang them to death."

Dame Vera Lynn, who reaches her 100th birthday on March 20, raised the nation's spirits in the Second World War as the bombs fell and the fighting raged.

Her haunting war-time song promised "We'll meet again" and her heartfelt words brought comfort to servicemen and their families parted by conflict.

"The day war was announced, I was in the garden with my parents at our house in Barking, glued to the radio. It was terrible news. We thought it would be the end of everything," she later recalled.

She risked her own life to tour war-torn Burma, India and Egypt to revive the flagging spirits of the troops she still fondly calls "my boys" and says she always understood how important a friendly face from home could be.

"I lost a very dear friend in the war – a young man from the same dance group as me. He went off to fight and was killed in the Battle of Britain," she once revealed.

"One of the most tragic things I found with the men I met on a Far East tour in Burma was the worry that they'd been forgotten. The soldiers in Europe had some level of contact with home. They knew people were thinking of them. But for the men in Burma, the sense of loneliness and being forgotten was one of the most difficult elements.

"It meant so much to receive little home comforts like cigarettes or chocolate – to let them know that home would always be there and that people were thinking of them. I sent packages to the men through the Red Cross with a few little gifts. I knew it would cheer them up."

The daughter of a West Ham plumber, she was born Vera Margaret Welch and made her singing debut in working men's clubs when she was seven years old.

She left school at 14, but lasted only one day at a button factory, before returning to her first love of singing.

Dame Vera took her stage name Lynn from her grandmother and her first broadcast came in 1935 with Joss Loss. She later performed with both the Charlie Knuz band and the Ambrose Orchestra and met her future husband, clarinet and saxophone player Harry Lewis, while singing with the latter. They went on to marry and have a daughter called

Dame Vera as she is today

Virginia although Harry sadly passed away in the late 1990s.

Songs like We'll Meet Again and The White Cliffs Of Dover earned her the name of the Forces' Sweetheart and she had her own half-hour Sunday BBC radio show called Sincerely Yours. She sold more records than Bing Crosby in 1942.

The British star went on to appear in the 1943 musical film We'll Meet Again playing the lead role of dancer turned singer Peggy Brown and her song Auf Wiederseh'n Sweetheart saw her become the first British female singer to reach the top of the US official music charts in 1952. It sold more than 12 million copies.

At 92, she became the oldest living artist to have an album in the Top 20.

She was the subject of TV's This Is Your Life – twice – and a guest on BBC Radio 4's Desert Island Discs to mark the 50th anniversary of the outbreak of the Second World War. Her song choices included Memory by Elaine Paige, Till There Was You by The Beatles and her own version of Heart Of Gold. Her luxury item was watercolour paints, brushes and paper and she also practically chose a book about edible fruits and vegetables.

The legendary singer has performed for royalty at Command Performances and appeared in concerts all over the world.

She is marking her century with the release of new album, Vera Lynn 100 – making her the first centenarian to bring out a new album.

It features re-orchestrated versions of her most beloved music alongside her original vocals as well as a previously unreleased version of Rod Stewart's hit Sailing. Dame Vera is joined by a line-up of British singers including Alfie Boe on We'll Meet Again, Alexander Armstrong on White Cliffs Of Dover and Aled Jones on As Time Goes By.

The Second World War favourite will also be celebrating her special birthday with a charity concert at the London Palladium on March 18.

As for the prospect of turning 100, Dame Vera is taking it in her stride and describes it as "an incredible adventure of song, dance and friendship".

YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20

Be open to new ideas and possibilities and to new directions. Try from this week to see the world as the amazing place it is and you will soon start to relax and enjoy it. Stick to promises and plans you have made, as they will lead to some of your most interesting introductions to date. Use Wednesday for that peace talk. Ring now for strength, courage and determination.

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

Are you playing games in love, or are others? I don't think you're really sure at the moment are you Taurus? Try to give yourself this week to think and feel about what you want from your future. Media links are well started. Don't be afraid to try new avenues and to turn your hand to things you've never done before. Ring now to right that wrong in the family from last month.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 301 65p PER MINUTE

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

You have been allowing stress to get the better of you, but it would be advisable for you to take some time out of life this week to feel like you again. What you want is important Gemini and you need to recognise this fact sooner, rather than later. Late invitations are fine if you make contact before Tuesday. Ring now so we can talk about the things you said, but didn't mean.

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22

Are you in love or lust, or do you want to be alone? This is a question which many of your sign will be asking in the days ahead. As long as it is you giving the answers, you will find peace and serenity. Debts that need to be paid can be arranged with an agreeable compromise if you make contact before Tuesday. Ring now so we can talk about the things you said, but didn't mean.

VIRGO AUGUST 24 - SEPTEMBER 22

Your emotions are like an onion. There are lots of tiny layers and only when you have peeled each one away can you really get to what is going on inside. This is a week to wear your heart on your sleeve, not to give mixed messages. Do you want to progress with what was begun last week? Friday tells you all you need to say and do. Ring now for a glimpse into your future.

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23

Be bold with your goals. If you remain in familiar territory, then you will never experience the power of growth or the thrill of the unknown. This is a week to get to know you and to accept yourself faults and all. If you find yourself interesting, then others will too my friend. Ring now so we can better understand why certain signs have distanced themselves from you.

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 21 - JANUARY 20

Keeping secrets is never easy for a sign such as you, as how you feel, sooner or later, be written all over your face. Try to have faith in who you are and what you want from your future. Moving in new circles helps you to put the past firmly behind you at last. New countries beckon for many of your sign. Ring now so I can help you to make your life the very best that it can be.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 309 65p PER MINUTE

AQUARIUS JANUARY 21 - FEBRUARY 19

As signs love to talk, that is something you and I both know. What you may want to be aware of though Aquarius, is that you may be giving away information which is not really yours to share. Someone you thought you could trust with a secret has let you down, but you're about to see that they've actually done you a very big favour. Ring now to deal with all that's worrying you.

PROPERTY TALK

>with NIGEL LEWIS

The plots are thickening at ex-film studios

If you're a movie buff, then Denham Studios should have a magical allure. The sprawling site was at the centre of the UK's film industry for nearly two decades until its stages closed in 1952.

It's where many famous films were shot including A Matter of Life and Death, Great Expectations and Brief Encounter.

The site, which is in Buckinghamshire, then limped along as both a centre for film processing and other technical services but also as offices for the US Air Force and later Rank Xerox.

But Denham's film connections are now being revived. The site has been bought by developer Weston

FILM HISTORY: The cinema at Denham Studios

Homes and is having £120m spent on it to create hundreds of new homes.

As well as new-build apartments and townhouses the development includes homes built within the old film studios' Grade II listed Art Deco headquarters and laboratories. Other retained features of the site include its cinema, where movies were first screened to directors, and a famous cocktail bar.

The development provides 224 converted and newly built homes including 154 one-, two- and three-bedroom apartments and 70 four and five-bedroom family townhouses.

All the streets in and around the development are also going to be named after famous film directors and artists who worked at the site including Stanley Kubrick Road, Albert Broccoli Road Noel Coward Avenue.

Prices start at £350,000 for a one-bedroom apartment and £800,000 for a townhouse. More information www.weston-homes.com or 01279 873 300.

INTERIORS >with Lesley Taylor

Forget a formal tailored finish. These curtains from the Designers Guild look beautiful gathered elegantly on the floor. Go to www.designersguild.com for the complete range or head to the Taylors Etc showroom

Window dressing

Lesley Taylor enthuses about the everyday art form that offers a staggering array of options

Curtains and blinds were once so unappreciated, not surprising given the choice before us was so overwhelming.

But there has been something of a quiet revolution on this front and today's window accessories can set a casual, relaxed scene, just as they can create a dramatic backdrop.

Casual chic

For a modern rustic interior, sheers are the way forward.

Gone are the days when net curtains were hung simply to obscure the view. Today's featherweight drapes create a light, bright and breezy atmosphere – offering a far more informal solution when compared to the relatively stiff and formal traditional curtain.

And no better a time is there than spring for going sheer – just as the periods of sunlight are getting longer and temperatures warming, allowing us to open the windows and watch sheers dramatically billow across the room.

The choice of sheers is staggering, incorporating every colour imaginable and an astounding number of patterns. For those who may struggle with colour combinations and contrasts, the fail-safe options of white and cream are a one-size fits all option for almost every existing interior.

The curtain conundrum

When it comes to window dressing, curtains are the go-to option and typically they fall into one of two categories – formal or casual.

Formal curtains are generally heavy, tailored fabrics with plenty of body – they're particularly well-placed in a traditional home where sleekness is a running theme. When colours such as royal blue, rich red or shimmering silver combine with a formal style curtain, the order of the day is decadence and opulence in equal measure.

Casual curtains are a world away from their formal cousins and pay homage to the current make-do and mend styling sweeping interiors.

This trend has impacted every part of the home, from the unstoppable rise of upcycled furniture and DIY artwork, to the introduction of cork materials and hand-crafted panelling. Casual curtains have experienced an upsurge in popularity alongside this interior design movements, and are instantly recognisable for their almost handmade look. For an especially laid-back appearance, choose a slightly longer than necessary drop so curtains gather on the floor beautifully.

Modern strife

Window dressing has moved on considerably in recent years. No longer do we just have to think about materials, colours and weights. Instead we have to consider how best to ensure we get a decent night's sleep without the sun peeping in, how to keep homes warm in the winter and cool in the summer.

There was once a time when to guarantee complete and utter darkness a seamstress would tack some thick material to the back of your curtains. Now, most fabric designers incorporate black-out layers into their fabrics to ensure the bedroom is perfectly dark for some decent shut eye.

Like black-out curtains, specialist thermal-lined curtains are becoming more and more popular in the home. These energy-efficient homewares can drive down the heat transference through your windows by an impressive 24 per cent – which means cooler rooms in the summer, and a

Choose a fabric to complement existing interiors – such as these floral curtains from the Designers Guild, designersguild.com warmer home in the winter. Impressive indeed.

Taking indoors outdoors

The past few years has seen a transformation of our outdoor areas – driven by an upsurge in bi-fold doors and the merging of the interior of our homes with the outside space beyond it. As furnishings such as sofas and cushions have been built to withstand the outdoors, while al fresco dining has been taken to a whole new level, fabrics have also found their way outside.

Now, there are specialist fabrics that are more than ready for outdoor life – fabrics that are coated with water repellent surfaces, and materials that have been developed to face even the harshest of sunlight season after season. All of which means that inviting, stylish patio areas, pergolas, arbours and arches will never be the same again.

■ Lesley Taylor is the author of 10 interior design books and has appeared on a range of network TV shows, including This Morning, giving inspirational advice on home styling. She lives in Wales where she is the Founder and Design Director of luxury interiors lifestyle store Taylors Etc.

TOP TIPS

- Use your existing décor to influence your decision when picking your curtains
- Choose a fabric that is suitable for the room
- New traditional is all the rage meaning sheers are back in, great for added privacy and a romantic finish
- Does your bedroom give you a cracking view of the sunrise? Best ensure your chosen material is black-out ready
- Made-to-measure curtains are perfect for the structured look while oversized gathers work well in a casual setting

AWARD WINNER

By David Ward

It must be the ultimate accolade for any car maker to have a new model just out on sale win the coveted Car of the Year title voted for by a jury of 58 European motoring journalists – and it speaks volumes for Peugeot's new 3008 SUV.

It's also the 21st prize for the five-seater car and for Peugeot their fifth model over the years to win this prestigious title – the first being the 504 back in 1969.

Appropriately at the time of the announcement of the 3008's latest COY achievement, I was being collected at Melbourne Airport 'down under' by an old family friend in his long-serving 504 diesel powered estate which still happily trundles along with the mileage clock now reading well over 190,000 since he bought new in 1977.

The 504 with its robust body structure powered by a 2.1-litre diesel engine was originally made by Renault in Australia under license and sold well there leaving many satisfied customers, including my uncle Brian who refuses to buy a more modern-day car "because it does everything I want, carries everything anywhere and has never let me down."

So this new 3008 SUV has a great deal to live up to with all its awards and it will be interesting to see how many are still around 40 years on like uncle Brian's ageless 504 estate.

Obviously in terms of styling, interior design and performance plus the latest technology this new 3008 compares no comparison whatsoever with that faithful old 504 while for buyers there's a wide choice of both petrol and diesel engines and also trim levels - starting with Active, then Allure, GT Line and finally GT.

Prices start at £21,795 on-the-road for the 1.2-litre Pure Tech petrol Allure right through to the range-topping GT powered by its two-litre turbocharged 180bhp diesel costing £32,995.

It's that flagship GT on test here and it's really putting Peugeot up amongst the established SUV big boys, such as VW's Tiguan, Kia's Sportage and market leading Nissan Qashqai.

The 3008 was originally launched more as a people carrier but with market trends now showing that SUVs are increasingly more popular this latest version is clearly aimed at those buyers although unlike some rivals Peugeot has no 4WD option available, sticking to their Grip Control system with all-season tyres which they claim gives all the road grip needed when driving in wintry conditions.

One of the big plus points of this 3008 and its predecessor is the outstanding levels of interior quality and comfort together with bags of all round space, even for tall passengers sitting in the back of this five-seater.

The seats are exceptionally comfortable with good, all round vision thanks to the high window line and there is ample luggage space too from a basic of 520 litres with all rear seats in use rising to a best in class of 1,670 litres with them folded down flat.

For the driver there is the now regular Peugeot iCockpit with its small square-like steering wheel, full digital display screen which is easy to use and in the middle of the console a neat panel row of buttons offering various functions operated by simply pushing the required one down.

The top ranking GT model naturally has all the technical gizmos one would expect and also an excellent to use six-speed automatic gearbox plus a sport mode switch which once moved from normal mode does provide a more sporty drive helped too by a steering wheel 'paddle' to instigate quicker gear changes.

The GT also comes comprehensively equipped that includes a panoramic opening glass sunroof, aluminium longitudinal roof bars, Nappa Mistral full leather upholstery and even a driver's seat with multi-point massage function!

The two-litre diesel engine is responsive but remarkably quiet too, even when accelerating hard away from standing traffic, and for such a big bodied car the handling is tidy, the car is really stable in heavy cross winds as encountered on test and controlled body roll when cornering at speed.

As for safety this 3008 has the full Euro NCAP crash test marks and pleasing too whichever model you buy all have rear parking sensors as standard - a pity some rivals don't follow suit because having such sensors does make manoeuvring a car so much easier, even for the most experienced driver.

The GT is not cheap and there are less expensive 3008 models to consider – go for a 1.2-litre petrol Pure Tech engine model if it suits the bank balance better as it won't disappoint – but for the best for all-round luxury, long-distance cruising in good comfort along with a bit of performance for the driver, then the extra cash outlay for the GT is well worth it.

MAKING A SPLASH: Harlow Penguins at the Development Meeting

Penguins pick up host of medals in development gala

HARLOW Penguins Swimming Club hosted a successful Development Meet with 236 swimmers competing from across the region.

There were several very strong performances from the Penguins, with numerous personal bests.

Seven Penguins won races including Brianna Hansen-Hoare (nine-year backstroke), Lottie Doble (ten-year backstroke), Harry Pasquariello (ten-year freestyle), Chloe Martin (nine-year backstroke), Ethan Ryan (11-year backstroke), Kassey Bradley (11-year butterfly), and Adam Fearon who impressively won both the 13-year breaststroke and freestyle events.

The club has gone from strength to strength since the opening of the new Harlow pool in 2009 and has 491 members.

Penguins also had 71 swimmers qualify for last month's Essex County Championships.

The club also recently secured Harlow-based Custom Lofts as their new main sponsor.

Harlow Penguins chairman Andy Jamieson said: "Having a respected local company sponsor our club has been a target for a while now and I am delighted that in Custom Lofts we have found the perfect fit."

The Penguins also competed in the second round of the Essex Mini League at Saffron Walden and achieved a hard fought victory, winning their first round meet at Southend last month.

Harlow step up march towards promotion

A MUCH changed Harlow team took another important step towards promotion on Saturday when they defeated Upminster 27-12 in London Three North East.

Playing up the hill in the first half, Harlow started strongly. Excellent play from both forwards and backs meant the men in red quickly made inroads into the home team's defence, before second-row stalwart Mark Twiner touched down in the corner.

Ross Stalley, standing in for the injured Danny Smith at fly-half, was unsuccessful with the conversation attempt.

Despite Harlow continuing to dominate, their tendency to over complicate things meant they did not score again until the 25th minute.

An excellent long throw from Mitch Hodgkinson started a team move that culminated in Dale Stalley scoring under the post. Again, Harlow seemed to be missing Smith as Stalley sliced the conversion wide.

The first half finished disappointingly for Harlow when they spilled the ball in midfield and an Upminster flanker ran in from 50 yards to cut the half-time deficit to 10-7.

Pressure

The second half started much like the first, with Harlow putting Upminster under pressure.

With 15 minutes gone Harlow kicked to the corner and number eight Kain Claridge touched down following a strong driving maul.

Harlow's running game then came to the fore with the backs off-loading well before Andrew Tarsey scored the bonus point try. This time the conversion was successful.

With ten minutes to play Harlow scored their final try of the game.

Strong play from the forwards created a huge hole which Dan Stevenson just squeezed through for the team's fifth try.

The game finished with Harlow reduced to 13 men as indiscipline crept in – and this allowed Upminster to score a consolation try on the final whistle.

Harlow are second in the table, just two points behind leaders Wansstead with a game in hand.

They have a week off before returning to action on March 25 when they host second from bottom Lowestoft and Yarmouth.

Hawks boss set to bring in new faces

Chapman ready to bring in new duo for run-in

By Andrew Franczak

andrew.franczak@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Town boss Danny Chapman says there is still a lot of work to be done if they are to get into the Ryman Premier play-offs, but has been given confidence after the excellent display against Met Police.

The Hawks kept their outside hopes of a play-off spot alive, with Mario Noto and Alex Read netting in Saturday's 2-0 win.

All games until the end of the season are crucial, but this Saturday's clash at home to sixth-placed Leiston could prove pivotal.

"We've had a couple of indifferent results of late and our performances haven't been to the standard we set ourselves this year," said Chapman.

"But it was good to get an away win and keep a clean sheet.

"What was pleasing was our tempo and work rate – against Billericay we didn't work as hard as we could, it felt like we were just doing enough rather than stepping it up to another level, which we are more than capable of doing.

"We did that on Saturday, everyone stuck to their tasks and we worked harder than them and that's what won us the game.

"If we can get a result on Saturday against Leiston that will get us a little bit closer to them – but they still have three games in hand on us.

"They are two points above us, but they have been having a bit of a rough time at the moment, which every team has during the course of the season.

MAKING CHANGES: Harlow Town manager Danny Chapman

"At some point that tide is going to turn and we need to make sure that it isn't against us on Saturday."

Chapman says he will have signed two new players by the end of the week, following the departures of Khale de Costa and Lawrence Yiga.

Misconduct

"We are in the process of signing two players, one is an attacking midfielder and the other is a winger to replace Khale de Costa," said Chapman.

"They are both Ryman standard. We've been left a little bit light with Lawrence Yiga having been released for misconduct.

"There may be another signing next week to give us enough strength within the side for the last eight games.

"The next three games will give us a better indication of whether we'll have a realistic chance of the play-offs.

"We're six points off those places at the moment – we've got a game in hand on Finchley, who hold the last spot.

"But you've got Leiston there with three in hand, and Dulwich with four, and then Enfield and Billericay.

"A lot still needs to happen for us to get in, but until it's mathematically impossible then we'll be giving it everything we've got."

Midfielder Stan Magurie is still out with a hamstring problem he picked up in the Folkestone game, but Chapman is hopeful he will be available for the week after next.

Defender Ibrahim Sonko should be recovered from his ankle injury in time for the Leiston game.
